Levy Includes Telephones, Utilities

7% Tax Rings Up Tonight

By CHAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman staff

KINGSTON — The county starts getting an extra two cents on the dollar from taxpayers at midnight when the new seven per cent retail sales tax goes into effect.

In addition to doling out more money for TVs, tambourines and toenail clippers, county residents will be charged an extra levy on some items that aren't usually thought of in terms of tax pennies.

An increase from five to seven per cent on all telephone company monthly service charges will go into effect on March 1.

Utility bills for gas and electricity, based on meter readings on or after March 1 will also bear the new tax, as will the price of gasoline at all service stations outside the city of Kingston.

Kingston has had a seven per cent tax for a number of years now, and city residents won't notice a bit of difference in any of their bills or purchases.

But for those who live in the county's 20 other towns, the cost of joining a social or athletic club goes up tomorrow, along with admissions to amusement events like movies or concerts, and day-to-day hotel rates.

County Budget Officer William Darwak says the list of taxable commodities is the same one used by the state, which gets four of the seven per cent to be collected.

Darwak said that some gas station owners may assume the extra taxes rather than raise their pump prices, but he didn't think that would happen in many cases.

At last month's legislature meeting, the group unanimously passed a resolution asking the state to lift its tax on utility and fuel bills because of the state's strained economic condition, but it's unlikely that any such action is in the offing.

An information sheet covering the various facets of the new sales tax program has been mailed out to all vendors, merchants and other establishments subject to the tax, and copies are available to the public at the legislature and public relations offices in the county building in Kingston.

INMATES FIGHT TOBACCO

The first and only stop-smoking program ever conducted in a state prison is now being sponsored by the local chapter of the American Cancer Society at the Eastern Correctional Facility at Napanoch. More than a dozen inmates are mid-way in the program, which was organized and is being conducted by Louis Shavell, left, and Tony Argibay, right, themselves inmates of the prison. The men trained themselves in how to conduct the habit-breaking seminars from the society's manuals and are under the supervision of Mrs. Pat Yeager of the local chapter, seated in the second row for Sunday's session.

Rhinebeck Man Killed

TIVOLI — A one-car accident claimed the life of a 20-year-old Rhinebeck man early Sunday morning in Tivoli and led to the arrest of another man for driving while intoxicated and speeding.

Timothy Sweeney, of Asher Road, Rhinebeck, was a passenger in a car driven by Robert K. Blank, 22 of 2 Murray Road, Red Hook.

Sweeney was ejected from the car when it hit a tree on Route 9G, three-quarters of a mile south of Tivoli. An autopsy Sunday at Vassar Hospital disclosed that he died of massive brain damage and massive internal injuries.

Rhinebeck State Police said Sweeney was reported dead at the scene. Blank suffered slight contusions to the chest, they said, and was taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital in Rhinebeck.

The accident was investigated by Troopers Joseph Bolander and James Horkan.

Blank is scheduled to answer the traffic charges in Red Hook Court Friday night.

Amin: 'Invaders Will Be Crushed'

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — President Idi Amin has postponed his meeting with the 175 Americans in Uganda from today until Wednesday, offering assurances that all are safe and should not be considered hostages even though they are barred from leaving the country.

But Radio Uganda warned its citizens Sunday to prepare for a possible "invasion" by U.S. forces within the next 24 hours.

"The presence of an American destroyer off the East African coast should be taken seriously," Radio

Uganda warned. "In the event of an invasion, the invading force will be destroyed by the Ugandan forces before it reaches Uganda."

The nuclear-powered U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise is cruising off the East African coast with 95 fighter planes aboard but Washington has dismissed Amin's earlier statements that 5,000 Marines were poised to be airlifted into Uganda.

Earlier in the day, after rescheduling the controversial meeting with the Americans from today until Wednesday, Amin ordered Radio Uganda to broadcast assurances that all Americans would be "safe."

Holding them hostage "has never crossed his (Amin's) mind," the radio said.

Amin also changed the site of the meeting from Kampala to the airport lounge at Entebbe airport, scene of the Israeli raid last July to free hijack hostages.

Ugandan officials said Amin intends only to thank the American community, mostly missionaries, for its work in the East African nation and probably will entertain his guests with tribal dancing.

Kampala sources said Amin, far from wanting to disturb the Americans, actually wanted to express his gratitude and may hand out some medals to long-serving missionaries who have ignored U.S. diplomatic advice to leave the country.

President Carter's statement that recent events in Uganda leave the civilized world "disgusted" prompted an angry cable from Amin telling the president: "All you have said about Uganda is false."

While Amin prolonged the suspense, the Nairobi newspaper The Nation reported a swift buildup of Cubans to reinforce Libyan and Palestinian forces already helping to prop up his shaky six-year regime.

The Nation reported "about 2,000 Cubans" were in Uganda, mostly in intelligence roles but also fanning out to countryside towns "to propagate Soviet ideology in Uganda."

The report said Amin and Cuban (See AMIN, page 5)

Severely Retarded Family Care Resident Is Back

Missing Man Found After Year's Search

KINGSTON — A 54-year-old mentally retarded man missing since last April when he was mistakenly placed on the wrong bus, has been found and returned to Ulster County.

Vincent Cali, the subject of a 13-state missing persons alarm for almost a year, was located by authorities in an institution in Maryland late in January. Cali disappeared after the director of a home where he was staying here mistakenly put him on a bus a day early. He had been bound for his family home in Ozone Park for the Easter Holidays.

Mrs. Wendy Hummel, proprietor of the Hummel Family Care Home on West Chestnut Street, where Cali had been a resident, said today her "prayers had been answered" when a call from the man's sister in Manhattan indicated that he had finally been found.

"I'm the one who put him on the wrong bus," said Mrs. Hummel. "When I heard he was found I started crying so hard my husband had to take the phone."

Mrs. Hummel says that a mix-up occurred last Easter when she was attempting to place Cali and other residents of the Home on buses to spend the holiday weekend with their families.

"I woke up one morning and said to my husband, we've got to get Vincent on a bus, his sister is expecting him, today... I thought it was Saturday, but it was really Good Friday," she said.

Cali's subsequent disappearance caused a massive man-hunt for the severely retarded patient and also brought a flood of phone calls and messages to Mrs. Hummel from local residents offering support and prayers for his safe return.

"I just got thousands of phone calls from people telling me their prayers were with us and asking whether or not Vincent had been found," said an emotional Mrs. Hummel today.

"Well he's back in Kingston, but he wasn't put back in our home...he's in the Respite over in Port Ewen. He's also back to work at ARC (the Association for Retarded Children) where he had a job before," she said.

World in Brief

Federal Probe Set For Nursing Homes

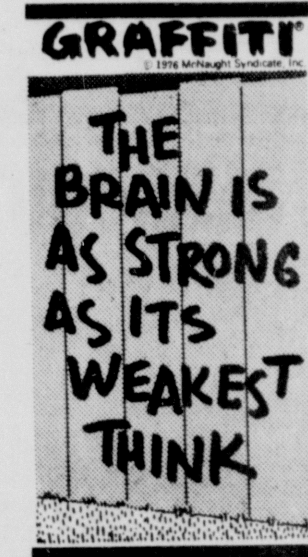

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Budget documents reveal plans for government investigations of possible underworld involvement in home nursing care as part of a crackdown on "massive fraud" in federally funded social programs.

The documents showed the new inspector general's office in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will check reports of fraud in other Medicare funded programs, in federal-state Medicaid spending and in federal student loan programs.

Pentagon Announces Laser Breakthrough

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a report to a House armed services subcommittee, the Pentagon says it has made a breakthrough in high-energy laser research indicating the concentrated light beams could be used as successful space weapons from both satellites and the ground.

In a report to a House Armed Services subcommittee, George Heilmeyer, director of the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, said the high-energy laser is "a potential system to defend our satellites against antisatellite threats" such as the killer satellite tested by the Russians.

IMF Is Prepared To Prop Up Egypt

CAIRO (UPI) — The International Monetary Fund agreed Sunday to extend credits of $600 million over a four-year period to bolster Egypt's sagging economy.

The agreement was reached in talks between Abdel Moneim Kaissouny, vice premier for economic affairs, and a visiting IMF delegation led by John Gunther, director of Middle East operations.

It will be signed in Washington next week. "This is an important step toward correcting the course of Egyptian economy," Kaissouny said.

Poisoned Candy Found in Tokyo

TOKYO (UPI) — A box of 40 chocolate almond candy bars found in a shopping center on Valentine's Day contained at least 30 bars that were poisoned with fatal doses of cyanide, police said Sunday.

Police chemists said they expected tests on the remaining 10 bars Monday would reveal that they also were poisoned.

The 43-year-old president of a design company found the candy Feb. 14 in a paper bag in an underground shopping center and turned them over to police.

SPCA Man Risks Life For Dog

KINGSTON — A local SPCA worker risked his life Saturday afternoon in an attempt to save a dog from the freezing waters of Esopus Creek.

Richmond Knapp, RD1 High Falls, and William Wegner, Rosendale, were on the job at the Ulster County SPCA animal shelter when an emergency call came in from a resident of Dutch Village Apartments, who told them a dog had broken through the ice on the Esopus behind the apartments and was drowning in the frigid waters.

The men reached the scene within minutes and pushed an aluminum ladder across the ice to distribute their weight evenly as they tried to reach the struggling animal.

ICE JAM

Warmer weather, the recent rains and some old snow have combined to stop up the entrances to some of the city's storm sewers. The young residents of the Sterling and Cedar Street area took care of one of the jams Sunday.

Nuclear Scientist Bugged

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — The government has acknowledged it tapped the phone of a prominent West German nuclear scientist last year because it feared he might help terrorists attack nuclear installations.

Interior Minister Werner Maihofer confirmed the action Sunday, one day after a West German news magazine broke the news of the bizarre case of Dr. Klaus Traube.

"The starting point of the investigation of nuclear physicist Traube was his intensive contacts with terrorists and their sympathizers," Maihofer said in a statement.

Der Spiegel news magazine said security police broke into the 49-year-old Traube's home near Cologne in early 1976 and installed eavesdropping devices when Traube came under suspicion of supporting terrorist organizations.

Maihofer said that because of Traube's "extensive knowledge of safety systems for nuclear installations he was one among the few persons in the Federal Republic capable of unleashing the dangerous potentials of nuclear energy to the harm of the general public."

The minister said Traube, a former business manager of the Interatom GmbH company who has since lost his well-paying job, had access to records on "operating nuclear power plants and their safety precautions."

"He could have given directives for attacks on nuclear installations from the outside as well as for the sneaking of terrorists across the (German) border," Maihofer said.

The minister said Traube had contacts with leftists and terrorists including Hans-Joachim Klein, who he said visited Traube in his home several times.

Klein took part in the 1975 terrorist attack on the OPEC headquarters in Vienna in the course of which three persons were killed, the minister said.

Maihofer also said Traube, who was in charge of the development of a new nuclear reactor model, was an acquaintance of a Frankfurt lawyer "who had contacts with terrorist circles."

According to Der Spiegel, the lawyer had close ties with leaders of the Baader-Meinhof urban guerrilla gang, which is believed responsible for the deaths of five persons, including four American servicemen, in a spate of bombing attacks between 1970 and 1972.

Soviet Military Power on Rise

LONDON (UPI) — The military power of the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies continues to grow both in quantity and quality but there is no indication they contemplate aggression against the West, the British government said today.

The Soviets are spending 11 to 12 per cent of their national income on military programs compared with 6.4 per cent in the United States and 5.5 per cent in Britain, the government said in its annual official white paper on its defense plans.

Soviet forces in Europe are being boosted with massive reinforcements of tanks, artillery and planes, and Russia's northern fleet — the main threat to NATO — has been drastically reinforced, the white paper said.

"The military power of the Warsaw Pact continues to grow both in quantity and quality," the white paper said. "There is no evidence to show that NATO's policy of deterrence is failing and that the Warsaw Pact is contemplating aggression against NATO. But political intentions can change rapidly, whereas military capability can only be altered over a long period."

Despite $340 million in economy cuts in defense spending this year, the white paper said, Britain still plans to spend $10.8 billion on defense in 1977-78 or about 5.5 per cent of its gross national product.

The white paper said that, regardless of economy demands, Britain will not slash her crack 55,000 man Rhine army and air force in West Germany.

The white paper said the Soviet Union currently has 14 armored and 13 motorized rifle divisions stationed in East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia. It said this is the same number as at the time of the invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

"But their real combat strength," the white paper said, "in terms of additional tanks, guns, armored personnel carriers and manpower, has increased by the equivalent of six complete pre-1968 divisions."

"The combat strength of many of the remaining 134 tank and motor rifle divisions in the Soviet army is being increased in a similar manner," the white paper said.

The white paper said the Soviet air force also is engaged in "a comprehensive program of reequipment," including addition of three new types of swing-wing tactical planes capable of delivering both conventional and nuclear weapons.

Summit In The Sudan

KHARTOUM, The Sudan (UPI) — The leaders of Egypt, Syria and the Sudan are meeting in an "historic" summit to forge a new alliance aimed at building up Arab power against Israel.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Syrian President Hafez Assad were greeted on their arrival Sunday by thousands of cheering Sudanese and were driven through flagbedecked streets to the capital's "friendship hall" for talks with Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry.

"We should be proud that the three of us represent more than half the Arab nation (world), which truly makes this meeting an historic event," Sadat said.

Government sources said the talks would be climaxed today by an announcement the Sudan has joined a unified Arab command set up last December by Egypt and Syria, the principal powers in the conflict with Israel, to coordinate their policies and ultimately achieve political union.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency said the Sudan's participation in the alliance amounted to the opening of a new front in the southern Red Sea against Israel.

"While Egypt and Syria are the confrontation powers along the eastern and northern fronts with Israel, Sudan has special strategic importance on the Red Sea front," the agency said.

A Khartoum newspaper said the summit is important to Sudan "because Israeli activities in the Red Sea are escalating and because Israel is cooperating with Ethiopia in this connection, a matter which causes harm to Sudan." Local press reports said the Jewish state has occupied islands near the Bab El-Mandab Straits, the southern gateway to the Red Sea, and stationed warplanes in Ethiopia.

During the 1973 Middle East War, Egypt staged a crippling blockade of Bab El-Mandab.

Referring to that conflict, Sadat said on his arrival: "Brother Hafez and I took the most important decision. Today we meet with brother Jaafar to take decisions on the future of the Arab nation."

In a related development, the Egyptian president told ABC TV in an interview broadcast in the United States Sunday peace could come in the Middle East within one month if Washington uses its full influence in negotiations.

Spring Cooled by Snow

By UPI

Thoughts of spring faded today as snow and cold, gusty winds edged across the Midwest and the East, ending a spring record warmth.

Reign of fever was cooled by snow over much of the midlands Sunday and the new round of cold weather spread to the East today after a balmy Sunday.

But a flash flood watch was continued for portions of New York and New Jersey — where the balmy weather melted mountains of snow, glutting rivers and streams.

Temperatures dropped steadily as winter extended its grip.

The wintry storm dumped two to seven inches of snow across wide areas Sunday in a push from Kansas to Michigan that decimated previously sprinkly weather.

Ice knocked a live power line onto a passing car in Springfield, Ill., nearly electrocuting two 17-year-old girls. The girls escaped with minor burns.

Springfield city maintenance workers were left without salt for the slippery roads because the latest shipment was stuck in barges on the clogged Illinois River.

Gale-force winds powered snow across western Lake Erie while Coast Guard rescue teams searched for eight ice fishermen stranded on an ice floe. A helicopter from Detroit rescued two of the fishermen and a local rescue squad took the others to safety.

Warm weather graced the East Sunday before the cold arrived.

Identical 79-degree readings set records in Norfolk, Va., and Raleigh, N.C.

Other records included a 77 at Richmond, Va. and a 73 at Baltimore.

The Weather Service reported the temperature hit a record 57 degrees Sunday at Buffalo, N.Y., breaking an 80-year old record of 54 degrees for Feb. 27, melting mountains of snow and boosting flood danger.

Residents along ice-jammed streams and rivers were asked to keep a watchful eye for a sudden rise in water levels. The flash flood watch was continued today but the return of cold weather eased the situation and only localized ice jam flooding and poor drainage flooding appeared possible.

Drought Cuts Inmates, Too

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — San Quentin Prison is closing its doors to new prisoners until the California drought is eased.

"We're not talking about closing the prison," said spokesman Bill Merkle. "Just for the duration of the drought we've stopped input."

In addition, he reported, prison officials have decided to drill for water on the east side of the grounds, the site of an old quarry.

While residents have cut back water 26 per cent during the drought, the prison has cut usage 47 per cent.

Prisoners have agreed to have bed sheets laundered only twice a month instead once a week and have accepted a system of "quick shot" showers, with water turned off between each group of bathers instead of running continuously.

CB Handles Are Telling

HOUSTON (UPI) — To the question "what's in a name?" a psychologist has answered that there could be quite a bit — especially if the name is the one adopted by a citizen's band radio operator as his handle.

Dr. James Landry says a CBER identifying himself on the air as the "bedroom bandit" or "camper queen" probably is fantasizing and adopting a self-image.

Landry, on the staff of the University of Texas Health Science Center, said the emphasis on sexual connotations in such handles may project a self-image more desired than attained.

"I don't think anyone would intentionally pick a bad name," Landry said. "I believe most people are really saying something about themselves, and trying to convey something to others."

"It is their opportunity to give information in only a few words which creates a definite image. It is something they find attractive and they want others to find attractive."

Traffic Light Found Wanting

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — The first traffic light in President Carter's hometown was supposed to be a safety move. Only hours after it was installed, it caused a wreck involving Carter's mother-in-law.

In the wreck 11 days ago, Mrs. Allie Smith, Rosalynn Carter's mother, was a passenger in a car driven by Gladys Murray. The women were going to greet the President and his wife, who were to arrive for their first visit home since he became President.

Mrs. Murray's car collided with a car driven by William L. Marshall of Plains at the intersection of U.S. 280 and Bond Street. Both drivers claimed they had the green light.

Mrs. Murray said she had just told Mrs. Smith: "Isn't it grand to have a traffic light and not worry about having a wreck?"

"About that time we had one," she recalled.

But the Jargon Goes On

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Civil Aeronautics Board is planning a nonhearing.

A recent CAB order — whose author was apparently ignorant of President Carter's recent directive to reduce government jargon — announced:

"Our plan is to direct the bureau of Operating Rights (the Bureau) to conduct a nonhearing, informal investigation at the close of which we will determine whether further procedural steps, such as rulemaking, legislative amendment or adjudication, are appropriate."

The writer apparently meant the staff will conduct an informal investigation without a hearing to gather preliminary information.

Asked if the announcement conformed to Carter's wishes, one CAB official said, "I don't think so."

LEGAL NOTICE

STATE OF NEW YORK
DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION
NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PERMIT TO DISCHARGE UNDER PROVISIONS OF NEW YORK STATE POLLUTANT DISCHARGE ELIMINATION SYSTEM APPLICATION NO. NY-0026479 (SWI) MOTZBO CORP. TERMINAL

KINGSTON (C), ULSTER COUNTY
Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Titles 7 & 8 of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State for the administration of and the issuance of permits under said Law, Motzbo Corporation, P.O. Box 621, Port Ewen, New York 12146, Attn: Arthur Motzkin, President has filed an application for a permit to discharge storm water runoff into Rondout Creek from an outlet at the applicant's facility located at 207 East Strand Avenue, Kingston, N.Y. The applicant operates a petroleum bulk storage terminal. This is an existing discharge.

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation tentatively intends to issue a State Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (SPDES) permit for the subject discharge(s). A final issuance will follow; (1) review of the application to assure compliance with all applicable provisions of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State and all applicable provisions of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-500); (2) development of specific effluent limitations and other controls applicable to the discharge(s) described above including schedules of compliance; (3) development of monitoring and reporting requirements for the applicant's performance; (4) consideration of all written comments from persons who qualify as described below as interested parties on this notice of application.

Any person interested in this application who wishes to comment thereon or become an interested party in any proceeding regarding this application must notify the undersigned in writing stating specific areas of interest on or before April 4, 1977.

All such written comments will be retained by the Department and considered in the formulation of the final determination. Any such interested party will be eligible to be heard at a public hearing ultimately held in connection with this application.

A TREE GROWS IN KINGSTON

Victoria Piasecki of 34 Boulevard first noticed her Christmas tree was growing in mid-January, and now it has several new buds and much new growth, some of it as long as six inches. The white spruce is 8 feet high and 10 inches in diameter. She said all she has been doing to the tree is giving it water.

POLICE BEAT

4 Arrested for Area Burglaries

KINGSTON — Three young men and the mother of a small child who allegedly burglarized a string of Kingston area stores and shot out the windows in at least 11 business places were arrested at 6 a.m. today by Kingston City Police and the Detective Division.

Police Chief Julius Glassman about $4,000 in stolen merchandise, including long guns, television and stereo equipment, ammunition, a microwave oven and tennis rackets were recovered at the residence of Joan Marie Whitaker, 103 East Chester St.

Ms. Whitaker was charged with criminal possession of stolen merchandise and was found in possession of a sewed-off shotgun, a federal violation, police said.

Also arrested were Thomas A. Long, 21, of 106 Wurts St., Michael T. McFadden, 19, of Risely Street, Sunrise Park and an unnamed juvenile, aged 15.

A uniformed officer, who observed one of the four attempting to pry open an entrance to Artercraft Camera, led to the arrest of the juvenile. His apprehension led to the others, police said.

Everything stolen in burglaries at Sears, Montgomery Ward, Al's Appliance, Rosenbaum's Wholesale and Rosenbaum's Wholesale was recovered, according to police. A stamp machine from Woolworth's and merchandise from LaFayette Radio are still to be recovered, according to Det. Sgt. Charles McCullough.

The arrests were made by Officers Thomas Barringer, Jeff Whitaker and Richard Krum. The investigators include Thomas Scarey and Kenneth Radel Charles McCullough.

Eight Cars Crash

An eight-car accident at 3 a.m. Sunday on Route 375 in Woodstock left one woman injured and police planning to arrest the driver of one of the cars who left the scene.

Eva Chase, 40, of Glasco Turnpike, received lacerations of the face and legs and was taken to Benedictine Hospital in a private car.

Kingston State Police report that the initial head-on crash involved the Chase car and another owned by Grace Fusaro of Highland. Police anticipate arresting whomever was driving the Fusaro car and

The mishap occurred on slippery pavement on Rt. 375 near Woodstock Country Club and set off a chain reaction involving six other cars.

The other drivers, who apparently escaped uninjured include: Dale Hafele, 21, West Hurley; Abdol Mashayekhi, 40, of Woodstock; Gay Jones, 24, of RD 3, Kingston; Jose Rojas, 48, of North Front Street, Kingston; and Jerry Nugent, 27, of Wilbur Avenue, Kingston and Gregory Neham, Tinker Street, Woodstock.

Area Blacked Out

Residents of Kingston, Port Ewen, New Salem and Andover were without electric power for about two hours Sunday night when the Boulevard Substation on Rt. 32 experienced insulator failure, according to officials at Central Hudson Gas & Electric Co.

The blackout which began about 9:30 p.m. also affected television viewing for those who subscribe to Cablevision outside the City of Kingston.

Driver Hurt

Roy Steenburgh of Stone Ridge, received contusions and abrasions of the legs in a one-car accident on Route 28 in the Town of Ulster about 12:20 a.m. today.

Kingston State Police report that Steenburgh was traveling in fog too fast for conditions and hit the median. No arrest was made.

Two Injured

State Police also report a man and a woman injured in a 3:20 a.m. accident today on Cottickill Road near Ulster County Community College.

Jeff Anderson, 30, of RD 4, Kingston received injuries to the head and back and Valerie Demaree, 27, a passenger, sustained lacerations to the head and possible concussion. Troopers Anthony S. Kolakoski and Norman L. Kilfoyle investigated both the Woodstock and the Stone Ridge accidents.

Rosendale Arrest

Rosendale Police have arrested a Detroit, Michigan man who is wanted for parole violation there.

Gerald M. Halberg, 30, was apprehended after a woman complained that he entered her bedroom and had taken four check blank checks from her dresser drawer.

A search of Halberg disclosed his possession of a hashish pipe, containing a controlled substance and a vial of pills, police reported.

He was charged with burglary, third degree and seventh degree drug possession. Other charges are pending and Detroit police officials have begun extradition proceedings.

Halberg was convicted of armed robbery in Michigan.

Teenagers Arrested

Four teenagers were arrested by Esopus Police after they reportedly drove their Honda trail bikes across lawns and walkways inflicting several hundred dollars worth of damage to Port Ewen School property.

Thomas Johnson, juvenile aid director of the Ulster County Sheriff Department said the bikes were confiscated by police and he will recommend work related responsibility projects for the unnamed 14- and 15-year-old youths.

Officers George Clark and George Whitaker made the arrests.

Dogs Killing Sheep

Wild dogs have been killing sheep in the Big Indian-Olive area, according to Johnson who said that under the Agriculture and Markets Law area residents who witness the killings are permitted to shoot the dogs.

Sheriff Deputy Christopher Johansen and Conservation Officer Henry Bernstein are investigating the incidences.

Dutchess Wants Ulster to Join

Pyrolysis Pitch Renewed

KINGSTON — The chairman of the Dutchess County Environmental Conservation Committee will give yet another pitch to county legislators on the benefits of joining a regional pyrolysis program being organized by that county.

Joseph Lombardi, who has headed a drive to get the waste recovery system going across the river, will address the Ulster Public Health Committee Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the legislative chambers of the county office building.

Pyrolysis is a system which burns garbage in a no-oxygen atmosphere where it creates gas similar to natural gas. The gas can then be sold as fuel.

Dutchess has some state and federal support for setting up a regional center to collect the solid waste and turn it into fuel dollars, but it needs commitments from a number of neighboring counties before the project would become profitable.

The county has already more or less decided not to participate in the plan because of the difficulty and expense of trucking the garbage from the western parts of the Ulster to a site in Dutchess County.

The committee meeting is open to the public.

Other committees meeting during the next several weeks include the newly formed mental health committee tonight at 7:30 p.m. in legislative chambers, as well as the traffic and safety board at 7:30 tonight in the health conference room.

Wednesday at 1 p.m. the Office for the Aging Advisory Council meets in the legislative chambers.

Fireman and Civil Defense Committee will convene in the public health conference room at the county building on Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Monday March 7 at 7:30 p.m. the audit and insurance committee will hear speakers and discuss the county's current no-bid insurance program.

Wednesday, March 9, at 7:30 p.m. the legislative rules and legal committee will meet in legislative chambers.

Northern Dutchess Could Collect $200,000

Hospital Drive Gets Big Boost

RHINEBECK — Northern Dutchess Hospital has received a long term commitment from the Thomas Thompson Trust supporting the hospital's $500,000 public fund drive for a new two-story wing now under construction.

The commitment is "in part conditioned to the amount of participation and success of the public fund drive which will begin in March," said Dr. George E. Verrilli, president of the hospital board of directors.

Terms of the commitment specify a total of $80,000 to be received between May 31, 1977, and May 31, 1979. Another $30,000 could be received each year from May 1980 to May 31, 1983, bringing the total over a seven-year period to as much as $200,000, Verrilli said.

"This will provide a tremendous incentive for the communities served by the hospital to at least match this amount during the campaign," said Mildred Z. Young, campaign chairman.

Employees, directors, medical staff, volunteer groups and others associated with the hospital are being solicited for some $100,000, a goal now close to being reached, Mrs. Young said.

This money, combined with the possible amount from the Thompson Trust and $100,000 on hand from prior bequests, will give the hospital $600,000 of expansion value at a cost to the public of only $200,000, she said.

"In other words, every dollar contributed by the public will be matched by two dollars from the hospital 'family' and the Thompson Trust."

Donald S. Dapson and Clarence K. Howe of Rhinebeck have been named to chair the advance corporate gifts division. Helen Z. Battistoni will head the community phase campaign in the Rhinebeck to Hyde Park area, and Dr. George F. Michael will head the Red Hook and north service area. Ed Harvey of Rhinebeck will chair the clubs and organization division.

The campaign will need the assistance of "numerous" volunteers during the next several months, Mrs. Young said.

The new two-story wing will provide space for a modern enlarged coronary and intensive care unit on the second floor and future expansion of the laboratory and ancillary facilities on the first floor. Each floor will have 4,000 square feet of space.

The wing construction program has been under study for four years.

Hopefuls to Speak In Saugerties

SAUGERTIES — All candidates running for election in the Village of Saugerties have been invited to speak at the Candidates' Night Tuesday, being sponsored by the local League of Women Voters.

Chris Fundas, voters service chairman of the League, said the event would begin at 8 p.m. in the Dutch Arms Chapel, John Street.

Mrs. Fundas said that under the program's format the eight candidates would each be allowed 10 minutes to talk about their background and interest in serving on the village board. Time will also be allotted for rebuttal statements by opponents, and questions will be accepted directly from the floor.

Candidates for the Sawyer Party, who will appear on Row A on the ballot, include George Turner for mayor, and the three nominees for trustee seats — Robert Schnell, Edward Sweeney and Eleanor Redder.

Village Party candidates, who will appear on Row B on the ballot, are: John Carnright for mayor, and trustee nominees Walter Keefe, Andrew Simmons and Charles Steele.

Weather Blamed for Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States suffered its worst monthly trade deficit in history in January as imports exceeded exports by $1.67 billion, the Commerce Department reported today.

Cold weather, which forced plant closings and hampered the movement of goods, was the major reason for the record deficit, the report said.

Exports in January totaled $9.6 billion, down sharply from the record total of $10.4 billion in December. On the other hand, imports last month were valued at $11.3 billion, the highest level ever recorded.

Albany Ave. Plan Hearing Date Set

KINGSTON — Plans for the widening of Albany Avenue from Foxhall Avenue to the Town of Ulster line near Harwich Street are about to be completed and the State Department of Transportation (DOT) has scheduled an informational meeting to discuss the impact the project will have on adjacent property owners.

DOT officials will meet with the public and local representatives on Tuesday, March 15 at 7:30 in the Common Council chamber at City Hall.

The less than half a mile roadwork is part of a $3 million, three mile project which, when completed, will link Route 587 in Kingston with the Caldor Shopping Plaza in the Town of Ulster. The construction has been underway since 1975.

Holly Krembrenk, three-year-old pet of Louis and Ruth Krembrenk of High Falls, is back home and doing well after amputation surgery paid for by friends and well-wishers. In fact, so many donations came in after a Freeman story about Holly's plight with her shattered rear leg that the extra funds were transferred to Mrs. Eliot Wight of Kingston, whose pet schnauzer also was struck in the road and required amputation. "We want to thank all our friends for their gifts," said Mrs. Krembrenk, giving the combination St. Bernard-sheep dog a welcome-home pat.

BOCES Doing a Great Job

Dear Editor:

I am finding it quite difficult in trying to convey the good work that BOCES Adult Education School is doing for the residents of Ulster County.

I have taken a few of their courses and have found it very beneficial. They have also helped me during after-school hours in forwarding my proper credentials along with a nice letter to my prospective employers.

The instructors are down to earth people that have working experience in their field of teaching and are better equipped to convey their practical knowledge of learning to their pupils.

In the past years the residents of Ulster County assumed a different image of the role that BOCES would perform in this community.

Perhaps this letter will help them to organize their thoughts, and realize that the school is there to help people help themselves.

Vets Resent Carter Pardon

Dear Editor:

To President Carter,

We regret and resent very much your pardon of Vietnam draft dodgers. It is an affront to every serviceman and their families.

Compassion and leniency have a place in our society. This is no time for leniency. If you wish to show compassion, think of our many hospitalized veterans and of the many families who have lost loved ones in the service of our country.

You probably are aware by now that nothing in this world is free. Our most precious possession is Liberty and Freedom, for which the price is very high. While we do not believe in war, right or wrong, we feel that it is the duty of each one asked to serve his country, to do so in his best possible way. We realize that in the past it was unfair that many were excused from sharing in their duty and obligation to our country.

If the draft dodgers had openly said they were afraid of the perils of war, we could understand and show compassion. We cannot accept their statements of refusing to serve our country in some capacity.

You have not only done great harm to the American government but also to the prestige of the American people.

Communist Backing Grows Here

Dear Editor:

In the election of last fall, 130 people in Ulster County voted for the Communist Party candidates, Gus Hall and Jarvis Tyner, for president and vice-president. Two hundred and fifty-four in the county voted for Herbert Aptheker, Communist Party candidate for U.S. Senator. We acknowledge and appreciate this support for our candidates as evidence that there is increasing interest in looking for new ways of solving our seemingly insurmountable problems. We believe it is also evidence of increased recognition that the program of the Communist Party for an immediate attack on the problems is realistic and practical.

Jimmy Carter, now beginning his term as President, was elected on the basis of his promises that unemployment, discrimination, poverty and other serious problems would be vigorously attacked to make a better life for all.

It is up to us now to put pressure on Carter and on the Congress to take the necessary steps to carry out these promises. The Communist Party of the U.S.A. welcomes the opportunity to cooperate with other Americans in these efforts.

A Proposal for The Mayor

Dear Editor:

This is an open letter to Kingston Mayor Frank Koenig:

I note with panic and alarm that the City Library now must vacate its present location and "look further." I also recall a recent article in the Freeman, in which you implored the public for any suggestions for use of the old City Hall.

For the benefit of the Central Businessmen's Association, in which my husband was active, may I make a suggestion:

Why not make the entire area of the High School a "Cultural Education Center?"

1. The high school is already there.
2. Move the City Library across the street to the City Hall. If you wish to make part of it a "museum" okay, but it won't bring all that much more traffic here, i.e., tourists.
3. At one time, the hospital was considering moving out and building elsewhere. Instead of leaving an empty building behind, it could be converted into classrooms. Before you shrug your shoulders, read on. We could then consolidate a great deal of BOCES nursing students there; we could even conceivably induce pre-med scholars from a distance to come to learn. Part of the hospital could be dorm residence for those from far away. And, part of the hospital could if you still feel you have room left over, take one floor for overflow of the elderly from the nursing homes that seem to be unconforming to state regulations. Your nurses aide students will have someone to give their TLC to, thereby cutting down expenses of hiring extras for that phase.

4. The Auditorium — now empty quite often, could be used for lecture halls or study room. And, what's in the building a block away where the bus terminal used to be? If it's empty — you have another building — all this within a two-block range.
5. Bring your Children's Library back to this "Learning Center" too. Books — education — are the basis for a firm future — for everyone.
6. The more BOCES here, the cost of busing could be cut down. You might even interest our two near-by colleges in running some evening classes locally, so that people who otherwise cannot attend because of transportation circumstances might have a better chance. Are any of these ideas worthwhile? I'd like to know.

Local Oil Prices Are Low

Dear Editor:

With reference to Richard Block's allegations of price fixing by local oil distributors, let me first state that I counted considerably more than seven companies listed in the Kingston telephone directory and that did not include competitors in Saugerties, East Kingston and other surrounding areas.

Second, for a period of almost four years, price has been controlled by either the Cost of Living Council or the Federal Energy Administration and, in fact, even under decontrol which became effective July 1, 1976 the distributors are operating under supply agreements based on 1972 figures and gross profit margins based upon May 1973 figures.

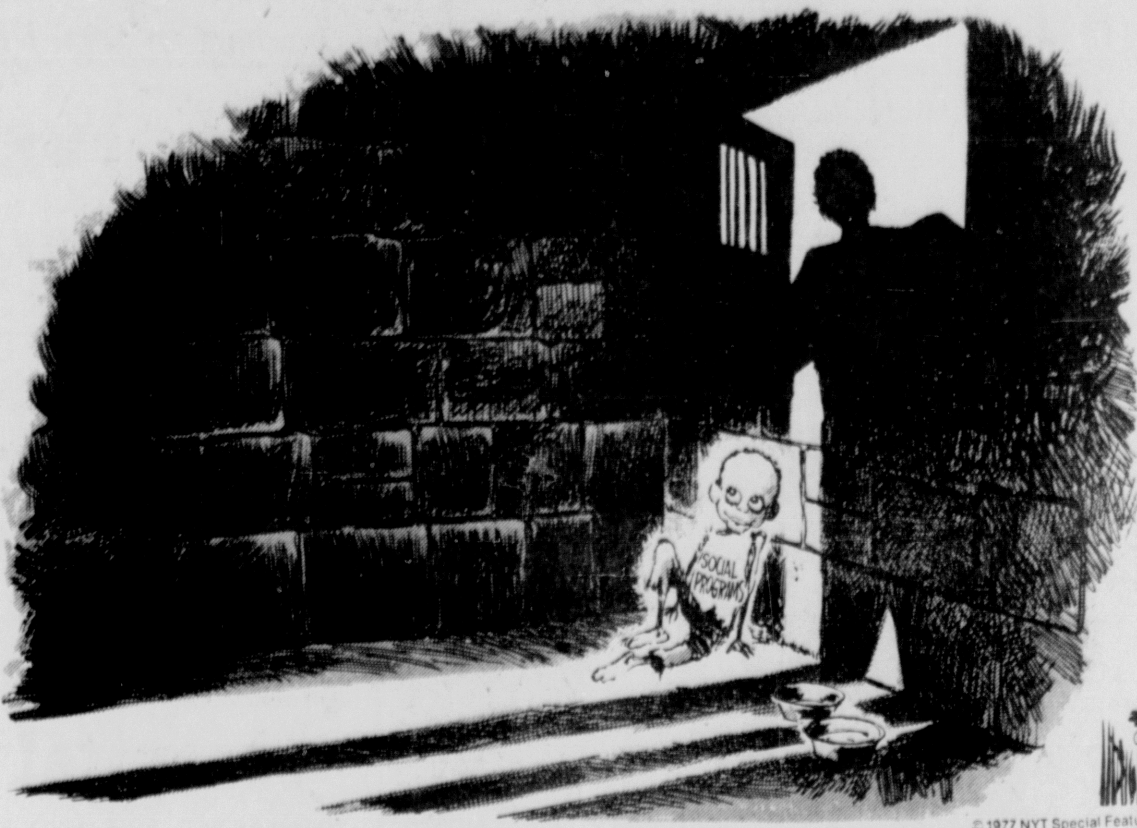

Under the Robinson-Patman

Act, companies are required to post their prices and if the prices are similar did it ever occur to Mr. Block that the companies try to competitively match the lowest price in the market place?

Because of this competition, the Kingston area has amongst the lowest prices charged for heating oil in the entire Hudson Valley which covers from Westchester to Albany.

Mr. Block is typical of the uninformed and vilifies a group of dedicated independent business people who have had every possible obstacle thrown at them for the past four to five years.

Controlling Our Energy

WASHINGTON - Amid the speechifying that there is nothing to this energy situation which a little laissez-faire can't cure, it's amusing to read the president of Atlantic Richfield, Thornton Bradshaw, favors price controls in his industry: "A free market for crude oil does not exist... the free market mechanism has never worked for oil because there always has been too much oil or too little... therefore I am reluctantly drawn to... the permanent management of crude oil prices by the U.S. Government" (Fortune, February, 1977, "My Case for National Planning," by Thornton Bradshaw).

As a matter of historical fact Mr. Bradshaw is correct. No industry has clamored with more persistence than oil for many and various kinds of government intervention. Whether or not the free market system can work with oil, the industry's executives have never thought so except for those brief periods when their product was in short supply and they stood to gain by an upward rise in the prices. Even then, though, they have still favored other kinds of controls and regulations.

The foundation for more controls is being laid by Mr. Bradshaw when he says, "Today we face a crisis that in many respects is as grave as war, although not as dramatically apparent."

Whenever the war analogy is trotted out, beware; some among us are looking to use the ultimate rationalization for employing the police power of the state to change the social and economic order by coercion. Invoking the state of war idea permits the ladies and gentlemen of government, with their private-sector allies, to do otherwise unthinkable things. When you can convince people that they are in a war-like situation you can dispense with a lot of the arguing which attends the democratic process. That is always the temptation of those possessed of an impatient zeal for the commonweal and a conviction that they have a more perfect, private understanding of how to serve it.

There is a lot of that in Washington just now. You don't have to have entree to higher places to hear highly placed people say there's been enough talk about energy, when do we get the energy policy and start the action?

If Congress is going to treat this in a "business-as-usual" or some other cliché manner, then let's have a wartime state of emergency, appoint a czar and get cracking.

The balance of groups and forces, the eternal frictions and inertias are so even, it must appear to people of affairs that the ordinary processes of government can't be used to legislate and decide how to move in new directions. The actual, as opposed to the textbook, American government is an increasingly useless instrument for change. Ours has become more of a housekeeping government, more of a caretaker operation than a set of institutions able to break new ground when needed. If government is to be a kind of mass stalemate, a permanent and enduring interregnum, then there must be a correspondingly great temptation to try to rule by declaring crises and emergencies, by suspending public debate and by resorting to temporary, limited dictatorships - our recurring czars and czarships - to get on with the job.

American politicians are prone to suffer from a minor mental illness known as the Winston Churchill syndrome, the belief that they can only display their greatness and reach their potential during dangerous and arduous times. Impatience, the Churchill syndrome and a secular, Calvinist belief that "sacrifice" is somehow good for us, all combine to make the worst sort of energy policy the most likely. It will be one that will doubtless please Mr. Bradshaw because it will include massive amounts of publicly supplied money for the research and development of substitute fuel supplies. The idea will be to keep present corporate and governmental institutions intact, and to do that we can have only one kind of energy program, one which spends skillions to feed fuel into extant marketing and distribution systems.

So more hinges on an energy policy than keeping warm. We can go the big way, keeping everything status quo ante, even the size of automobiles, and concentrate our efforts on an extravagant attempt to find new fuels for our ever-expanding national gas tank. The big way guarantees us a continuation of the centralized, ubiquitously regulatory government everyone complains of.

The small way would maintain our standard of living but would also preserve some degree of individual liberty while reviving a technical and economic versatility and flexibility which have been atrophying under a system that labors to perfect such expensive, centralized and disaster-prone arrangements as a national power grid.

When industrialists abandon their free market theology to call for controls, as Mr. Bradshaw has done, what is at stake transcends a debate over allocating energy research money.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The Tuna Fish Dilemma

Two years ago tuna fishermen killed 154,000 porpoises in the Pacific Ocean. The ecologists made a good case in Congress for the friendly, defenseless porpoises and the bad, bad fishermen.

The facts are complex. There are no villainous aspects. The fishermen do not want to net porpoises. They are after tuna. Unfortunately, tuna swim under and behind schools of porpoises. The big boats out of San Diego and San Pedro must first search for frolicking porpoises.

Porpoises are mammals. They breathe air. When they are caught in a net with the valuable tuna, porpoises panic and strangle to death. Laws which have been passed to protect the porpoises now inhibit fishermen from catching tuna.

Some fishermen are bankrupt trying to obey the law. When they spot porpoises at sea, they set their nets in a big arc behind the mother ship. Small noisy speedboats are launched to scare the tuna into the mouth of the net.

When porpoises leap inside, the speedboat pilots must prevent the sagging net from collapsing on them. They must also yank the rear part of the net and sink it so that porpoises can find a way out. Thus a can of tuna becomes more and more expensive.

Ancient Greece looked upon the porpoise as an intelligent friend of man. A classic statue was designed showing a joyous Greek boy riding the glistening back of a porpoise, hanging onto the dorsal fin.

Today there are sailors who believe that, if a ship sinks, porpoises will surface and show the way to shore. This is legendary sentiment. Porpoises are shy animals. Inside a net, some will drop slowly to the bottom and commit suicide.

They live in all seas family-style. They swim by thrashing their tails up and down and can reach 24 miles per hour. In schools, the young bulls are placed on the outside of the group, expectant mothers in the middle.

When a mother is about to give birth, her recessed nipples fill with milk. Other females surround her as she swims. The infant will be an animal, not a fish. It will require air to live.

At the moment of birth, a pre-selected female grabs the baby in her mouth, snaps the umbilical cord, and raises for the surface. The baby is thrown into air. When it slaps back onto the sea, this amounts to a slap and breathing begins.

The mother nurses the baby for a long period of time. Even when it grows and is moved to the outer edge of the circle, the young adult often returns to mother if he gets into a fight with another male.

They are a delight to all seafaring men. I never met a fisherman who desired to catch or hurt a porpoise. The ecologists point an indicting finger at the tuna fleet. Porpoises are worthless to fishermen. They try hard to catch the tuna and free the porpoise.

Sometimes, it is impossible. The big fishing boats can freeze 1,700 tons of tuna. The crew must be prepared to remain at sea two or three months to catch this much. Ashore, a full hold will get $1 million for a large catch, about 30 cents a pound.

Government scientists are, belatedly, trying to help fishermen to design big nets of fine mesh which will hold tuna, but permit porpoises to escape. It is too late for some seafarers, whose boats were sold at auction for bank debts and mortgages.

Children Lost in Paperwork

WASHINGTON — Tens of thousands of American children, wards of the bureaucracy, have been consigned to a dreary purgatory, without love or hope. Many are also living in worse poverty than the government rescued them from.

It has become the American way for the bureaucracy to take custody of children who have been abandoned or abused by their parents. Sometimes the separation is voluntary, a breathing spell while families extricate themselves from the vicissitudes of modern living.

But once children fall into the clutches of the bureaucracy, they often become lost in the paperwork. They become charges of magistrates and clerks who are detached, methodical, guided by regulations which they follow to the letter.

In place of a parent, the abandoned child has a government clerk seated in his cubicle pondering the latest form and deciding that it runs afoul of regulations and must be disallowed.

Of the 350,000 children entrusted to the government's foster care program, according to congressional testimony, "between 100,000 and 200,000 ... are adrift in foster care and will likely remain in foster care for long and indefinite periods ... Foster care has become a vast and a hidden dumping ground for children."

It has taken Congress two years to put together the sordid story of the plethora of social programs which make up foster care. The investigation was started in 1975 by then-Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and Rep. George Miller, D-Calif.

Miller called upon the resources of the General Accounting Office and the Library Of Congress. The Health, Education and Welfare Department also conducted an investigation of its own foster care efforts. The final results haven't been made public, but we can reveal the shameful findings:

— Foster care costs the taxpayers almost $700 million a year, with the money shuffled into a bureaucratic maze where administrators fight over the dollars. Much of the money never reaches the children but is siphoned off by the administrators. There is also a wide disparity in foster care costs, ranging from $156 to $1,320 a month. According to the GAO study, the government is often billed for costs which "we believe would be unallowable under any reasonable interpretation of federal regulations."

— Over $600,000 of unallowable federal payments were made, for example, to two counties in California. The counties placed foster children in private institutions that made profit off children's misery at public expense. The GAO found evidence of similar unlawful placements in New Jersey and New York.

— The GAO inspected foster care institutions which were no more than children warehouses, with broken plumbing, missing window screens, dilapidated furniture, broken windows and inoperable refrigerators containing rotting fruits and vegetables. Other children's homes had walls and doors with holes, mattresses without bedsprings and "barracks-like" settings. "Serious deficiencies" were discovered in seven of 18 institutions the GAO visited.

— At one-third of the institutions inspected, some children did not receive annual physical exams. Almost half of the institutions had "inadequate controls over medications" — that is, unsafe storage of medicines within easy access of children.

— HEW found the local foster care programs ensharled in red tape. A child, for example, must run a maze of as many as six different eligibility standards to receive foster care. The programs were also plagued, according to HEW, by "lack of adequate planning, goal setting, review and follow-up."

— The purpose of foster care is to provide children with temporary refuge. An attempt is supposed to be made to help the family solve its problems and then return the child to his own parents. This seldom happens. In Iowa, 65 per cent of the mothers with children in foster care hadn't been seen by a social worker for more than six months. In Massachusetts, the figure was 60 per cent. In California and Massachusetts, more than 30 percent of the parents acknowledged that they had no contact with their children after placement.

It might be better for the children if Americans stopped handing their problems and their consciences over to the bureaucracy.

PARTY POOPER: At this writing, the delicate negotiations over the Panama Canal have bogged down. Panama's military dictator, Omar Torrijos, blamed the stalemate privately upon the distinguished U.S. negotiator, Ellsworth Bunker.

"The trouble," confided Torrijos, "is that Bunker is too old; he's half deaf; and he wears a tie."

The Panamanian president is an earthy man who enjoys a good binge. Bunker simply is too dignified and aloof to suit him. Torrijos hinted heartily that he might be willing to make a deal with a negotiator who would take off his tie and spend a night on the town with him.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Jesse Williams who passed away Feb. 28, 1974.

His helping hand was always first
To render any aid he could;
His voice was always raised in praise,
His words were wise and good.
Dear father, since you've gone away,
The ones you loved so true,
Try hard to carry on the way,
We know you'd want us to.

Edward Dahlberg Dies; Controversial Author

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Edward Dahlberg, a controversial author and critic and a literary cult figure, died in his home Sunday. He was 76.

Family members did not disclose details surrounding his death. Funeral arrangements were pending at McDermott-Crockett Mortuary.

Dahlberg wrote at great length of his illegitimate upbringing by his mother, Elizabeth Dahlberg, a hairdresser who took him to Louisville, Memphis, New Orleans, Dallas and Denver before settling in Kansas City, Mo.

Dahlberg, born in Boston July 22, 1900, was in a Cleveland orphanage for several years and spent some time as a hobo.

In his book "The Confessions," Dahlberg tells how he arrived in Los Angeles at the age of 19 and later attended Berkeley College and Columbia.

"At 19 I was a stranger to myself," he later wrote. "At 40 I asked: 'Who am I?' At 50 I concluded I would never know."

The later part of "The Confessions" covers his expatriate years in Paris and London and the 1930's in New York.

Much of Dahlberg's work reflected a deep alienation from contemporary life and his literary contemporaries as well.

His first novel was "Bottom Dogs" in 1929. Some of his other books were "Do These Bones Live," "The Flea of Sodom," "The Sorrows of Priapus," "Truth is More Sacred" and his autobiography, "Because I Was Flesh."

Daniel O'Connell, Albany Boss, Dies

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Daniel P. O'Connell, longtime Albany Democratic leader, died early today at St. Peter's Hospital. He was 91.

A hospital spokeswoman said O'Connell "expired peacefully" at 1:50 a.m. He had been hospitalized since Feb. 4 for treatment of a lung congestion.

The son of an Irish saloonkeeper, O'Connell was born in Albany Nov. 13, 1885.

He began his political career in 1919 shortly after being discharged from the Navy by battling a Republican machine in power for 22 years. Three years later, the Democrats elected a mayor, and the city and county have been virtually in Democratic control ever since.

The political machine he and his late brother, Edward, built up became the longest-lived political structure in the nation. A few years ago, a Republican was elected district attorney but the post is again held by a Democrat.

O'Connell lived modestly, with a home on Albany's South Side and a summer camp in the nearby Helderbergs.

After Thomas E. Dewey was elected governor in 1942, the famed racket buster made O'Connell a special target of investigation. But, two years and about $1 million later, Dewey dropped the probe after obtaining only 36 minor convictions. O'Connell was never questioned.

Cocoa Going Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you're seeking a substitute for expensive coffee, don't look to cocoa.

Agriculture Department commodity specialists today warned consumers to expect new peaks in cocoa prices during the next few months.

Analysts said cocoa bean prices, which averaged 75 cents a pound in 1975 and $1.10 in 1976, were up to $2 by early February this year and "tight supplies and high prices are expected to continue at least until new crops are harvested this fall."

Bicentennial Account

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The Rotary Club isn't forgetting the Bicentennial just because it is 1977.

The civic club has put $1,976 in a local bank.

The account was turned over to the town, but cannot be touched until 2076. By then the fund will have increased at 7½ per cent interest to $3,000,062.

Life

Frank H. Simpson shows students from Sojourner Truth School through his funeral home.

Children Face a Fact of Life

KINGSTON — Fifth graders from Sojourner Truth School have learned they don't have to be afraid of anything in a funeral home, not even a dead person.

The dead are to be respected, not feared, and their families must be consoled and comforted, funeral director Frank H. Simpson said as he led the youngsters through his establishment recently and brought them finally to a visiting room where the body of an elderly man was lying in state.

"May I touch him?" one of the boys whispered after he had said prayers at the casket. Yes, but touch him gently and respectfully, Simpson nodded.

The boy extended a small hand over the satin pillow and softly touched the man's silver hair, as if to ease his sleep with a final caress.

Sitting later with Simpson and their teacher, Robert J. Rota, the students agreed that the elderly man "looked nice" as he lay among the flowers with an American flag at his head.

Some of the students had been afraid to enter the funeral home at 411 Albany Ave., but they learned in their two-hour visit that only the unknown is frightening.

"You have to see something and get used to it so that you're not afraid," one of the girls said.

They also learned how to behave in a funeral home. Simpson showed the youngsters how to visit and pray for the deceased, cautioning them that they also should pay their respects to the grieving family before leaving the room.

Calling hours for the elderly man weren't to begin until two hours after the school tour ended, but the family agreed to let the youngsters visit the deceased and pay their respects.

Simpson, who talked to the students in their classroom several weeks earlier, was one of the more popular speakers to visit the class as part of a career education program Rota started at the first of the year.

After their interest was sparked by a magazine article about a 15-year-old Georgia youth who started his own business, Rota's 18 students began researching and taking part in a wide variety of professions.

One boy who wants to be a police detective is now investigating the disappearance of a film strip from the school library.

"He's even going around questioning people," Rota smiled.

A girl interested in a culinary career has come up with a recipe that combines, among other things, popcorn and jello. She plans to cook her creation for the class.

Rota, an energetic and even-tempered teacher who appears to have won the hearts of his students, said their behavior has changed dramatically since he began encouraging career studies.

"They've learned to work on their own and with one another," he said. "There is no fighting, no quarreling."

Basic lessons about the economy and unemployment were learned in a classroom "industry" where the students were divided into groups for assembly-line production of valentines.

Rota, the boss, observed the dismay of students feeling pressure when production quotas were increased, and, on the other side of the coin, the depression of those youngsters who were "laid off" when their valentine supply began to exceed the demand.

"They now know how their parents feel in similar situations," Rota said.

The triumph of the economics lesson came when the "unemployed" students set up their own shop offering individualized valentines of higher quality.

In their study of the legal profession, the students acted out a mock courtroom trial.

"Experience is the best teacher" has become the class slogan, Rota said.

Simpson, who has hosted tours of high school and seminary students, said Rota's class was the youngest he has had. But he thought the experience was especially valuable for youngsters. "There is nothing to be afraid of in funerals or in death," he told them.

Sojourner Truth School, which serves a heavily Hispanic- and Afro-American neighborhood, was named after a 19th century Kingston black woman who, although born a slave, became a nationally prominent crusader for human rights.

Sometimes the facts are grim.

DEAR ABBY

Reader Stresses Honesty Importance

DEAR ABBY: This letter is in response to HARD LESSON, the woman who bluntly turned away a lonely but unwelcome neighbor who rang her bell. LESSON later learned that the woman committed suicide after being turned away.

We agree that the situation was handled rather coldly, but we feel it is vital that this woman, as well as the rest of your readers, not feel responsible for the actions of others.

HARD LESSON had the right of privacy, and we respect her for making her wishes known. It is unfortunate that the outcome was so tragic, but the implication that the suicide was the result of her assertiveness is offensive to us. We assume that because you ran that letter without comment, you agree with the implication.

We are not endorsing lack of consideration, aggressiveness or lack of concern for people. But we are stressing the importance of honesty, personal responsibility and a right to meet one's own needs.—THE ASSERTIVENESS TRAINING GROUP, TOPEKA STATE HOSPITAL.

DEAR GROUP: You make a valid point that deserves to be shared with my readers. However, your assumption that I agreed with the implication because I ran the letter without comment is incorrect. I frequently permit readers to express their views, even though they differ from mine.

DEAR ABBY: I go to the barber shop once a week. I am bald on top, and all I ever need is a little trim around the ears and a bit of clipping on the back of my neck, so it takes my barber exactly six minutes to give me a haircut. I pay the standard price, of course.

Now, the man who has a full head of hair and has saved up a month's growth takes about five times as much of the barber's time as I do, yet we both pay the same price for a haircut. Why?

I think barbers should charge according to the amount of time they spend with each customer. I would appreciate your opinion, and the opinion of others.—BALD, BOTHERED AND BEWILDERED

DEAR BALD: Considering how much a haircut (even a little trim around the ears) does for a man's morale, it's a bargain at any price. Don't split hairs.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and have a question. Do you think pupils should have to work all day in school, and then take home a load of homework to do

at night?—CHEATED BY HOMEWORK

DEAR CHEATED: That's a loaded question. How much is a "load"? The learning process can't be squeezed into a five-day, 35-hour week.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

ERMA BOMBECK

Fashion's 'Flunk' Stories

You always hear about fashion's success stories.

But what about the losers? The fashions that came in and went out the same day? The hopes and dreams of designers that were shattered by the sound of 50 million women laughing.

Some styles, for one reason or another, just don't make it. These are some of them.

Scratch and Smell T-Shirt.

This should have been a smash. The principle was great: you scratched and voilà... a scent was circulated that ran the gamut from perfume to pizza. Unfortunately, there were too many imposters. People scratched for status and stirred up only perspiration. This gave the official scratch-and-smell shirt a bad name.

...not to mention the smell.

The Gladiator Boots. Remember them? They were the polished leather boots that hit just above the knee. You could look stylish in them or sit down. You couldn't have both.

The Diaper Bikini would have been a real seller if wearers had been able to keep their weight down to under 8 1/2 pounds.

Fanny Sweater: This is one of the many knit styles designed to fit a hanger and not the human body. The name was deceiving. It suggested that everyone who had a fanny should cover it with a sweater. In many instances, that's all the sweater covered and the sides and front were left wide open.

By actual count, there were only three women in the country who could actually button a fanny sweater. They were ill. The Satin Pillow Stomach: I'm not making this up. A few years ago a manufacturer came out with a fake satin stomach that you tied around your waist for thin girls who wanted to look healthy.

I looked so healthy in it, two men on the bus hoisted me into their seats and another called the police who reported I was in the final stages of delivery.

The "fake" stomach now resides on the living room sofa.

This year, once again, we'll be looking over the nominees for the fashion losers. What will it be? The cigarette jeans for legs that don't need circulation? The jump suits for people who swear off liquids after 4 p.m. the night before? Or the tube dress for women who want to be mailed?

May I have the envelope, please?

Communication Techniques to Be Emphasized

Seminars for Parents Scheduled

ELLENVILLE—A series of five seminars for parents, sponsored by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, will be presented five Thursdays in March, 7:30 p.m., in the Hunt Memorial Building at Liberty Square in Ellenville.

Open to all parents in the Ellenville area, the seminars will emphasize developing communication techniques between parents and children on a variety of topics including discipline, communication, drugs, sexuality.

The leader for the first session, March 3, concerning Parents and Children, Communicating, Relating, Sharing, will be Karen Thomason, a parent, teacher, communication instructor, family therapist and marriage counselor. She received her BS in Education from Oklahoma State University and taught at various levels before receiving her MS in Family Counseling from Virginia Polytechnic Institute State University, Va. She has worked for family service at the Children's Home in Kingston where she taught parenting techniques using Parent Effectiveness Training and Transactional Analysis and was a member of the executive committee of Family. She is working toward her Ph. D. at State University of New York, Albany.

Fliers describing the seminar, fee is $1 per session or $5 for the entire series, and registrations are available at shop-

Cancer Society Names 'Daffodil Days' Head

NEW PALTZ—Mrs. I. Victor (Jeri) Izzo has been selected as chairperson of the American Cancer Society's Daffodil Days, March 30 and 31, in the New Paltz and Highland area. She will coordinate the distribution for hundreds of fresh cut daffodils, specially shipped to New York from the west coast for the American Cancer Society-sponsored special event. Chairperson for a second year, Mrs. Izzo is most hopeful that Daffodil Day 1977 will exceed the $1,400 raised last year in the New Paltz area.

Others serving on the Daffodil Day Committee from New Paltz include: Leslie Wahrab, Vivian Beneati, Lois Stokes Gertrude Vorisek, Jane Cobun, Dorothy Reiser, Linda Babb, Claudia Honsberger, Jill Antinucci, Rael Cantline and Miriam Clough. Those from the Highland area include Joan Davidson, Betty Sciortino with Nancy Nucci as chairperson.

"We are suggesting businesses consider giving daffodils to their secretarial force or employees," said Mrs. Izzo, "and husbands might also consider taking some home to their wives that day."

Advance orders are being taken by the society by calling Mrs. Izzo or a member of the committee.

Daffodils were selected for this event since this flower represents the symbol of hope, much the same as does the American Cancer Society.

Wygant Students Taking Part in Arts Festival

KINGSTON—Thirty pupils of the Emma Wygant School have prepared an original song and painting fun performance entitled "Parade of Colors" for participation in the second annual Very Special Arts Festival, Friday, March 4, at the Campus Center of State University of New York at Albany.

The students will be divided into three teams representing ten different colors and as they sing the jolly stand-up colors song used for teaching, each will paint his color on a large canvass which as Mrs. Mary Kent, head teacher explains, turns into a modern art painting. Each of the students will be dressed in a smock signifying his color. These were made by members of the Parents Club.

The plans and training have been a combined effort under the direction of Marilyn Costello, art teacher, and Mona Stovall, music teacher. Assisting with the project are Mrs. Natalie Johnson, Mrs. Dorothy Hughes, teachers; Mrs. Mary Lynady, and Mrs. Muriel Short, teachers' aides.

Last year the pupils did square dancing at the festival and were later participants in the all-state festival at Lincoln Center, New York.

The festival in Albany is sponsored by the Schenectady-Albany, Schoharie Board of Cooperative Educational Services and the New York State Department of Education, and will include workshops and displays of visual and performing arts by handicapped children in public and private schools and agencies. More information may be obtained by calling Eugene Maillard at the New York State Department of Education.

Officers elected at a recent meeting of the Town of Ulster Democratic Social Club are Barbara Tiano, treasurer; Gloria Montague, vice president; Caryle Mitchell, secretary and Daniel Houser, president.

All About People....

An article by Prof. Rhoda Mones, coordinator of communications media - speech and Theatre at Ulster County Community College, has been published in the winter edition of "The Delta Kappa Gamma Bulletin." Entitled "A Plea for Common Sense," the article is directly related to the current theme: Management and Communications in Education. She reports that teachers cannot protect their integrity unless they welcome "measurment" and "accountability."

"Those of us who pride ourselves on being good teachers have been using exciting techniques that we take for granted," Professor Mones declares. "Rather than be defensive, we should say — Hey, look us over! We are doing interesting things without students and they are responding to life situations. Professor Mones cites the need to bury the "town versus gown" divisive mentality which views the college and the educational system as removed from the real world.

Having served during the past five years as a faculty liaison in preparation of a campus master plan for State University of New York and in the re-accreditation process by Middle States Association of the Commission on Higher Education, she notes that she has been given a special opportunity to view the discipline in which she has been teaching in relation to the entire institution. She has been teaching at UCCS since it opened. She earned BA and MA degrees from State University of New York, Albany and in 1972 won an outstanding educator of American award. She is listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, is a member of Alpha Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma and other community and professional organizations including the New York State Speech Association.

Gladys McIntosh, a senior child care worker at St. Cabrini Home in West Park, and who lives at RD 2, Red Hook, has been awarded a bachelor of professional studies degree from Empire State College.

She is a member of the board of directors of the Association of Child Workers.

Joseph Morley, assistant vice president and director of operations services for the Securities Industry Association, has been named to the board of trustees of Marist College, Poughkeepsie. The Securities Industry Association is a national trade organization that represents approximately 650 broker-dealer organizations, which conduct more than 95 per cent of the securities business in North America. A resident of Cooperstown, Morley is the author of several technical publications used by securities firms and serves on the faculty of Wall Street's New York Institute of Finance. He attended Seton Hall Preparatory School and Pace College. He is married to the former Roberta Ann Schilling of Bloomfield, N.J. They have four sons including Robert, a senior at Marist.

Samuel J. Herzog, 7 Washington Ave., Kingston, has returned home from Kingston Hospital where he was a patient for recent eye surgery.

Board Members Elected At Kingston Hospital

KINGSTON—New members and officers were elected recently at the annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Kingston Hospital Corporation.

New members who will serve a three-year term on the board include Kaye president in charge of Mortgage of Heritage Savings Bank; William Darling, area business man and president of the H. F. King Corp.; Alice Tipp, past-president of WHITA and chairman of Ulster County Office for the Aging; Richard Boice, personnel director of Kingston Site IBM Corporation.

New officers of the board of trustees are Wilbur R. Peters, president; Christus Larios, first vice president; S. James Matthews, second vice president; John Hall, treasurer and George Holmes, secretary.

Speaker for Symposium

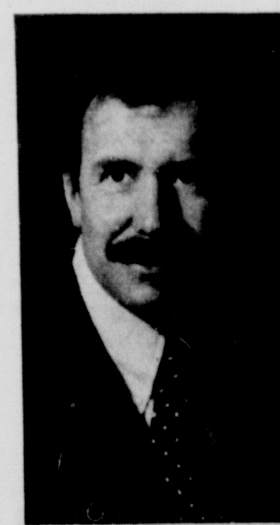

Dr. Vanderlyn R. Pine, chairman and associate professor of the Department of Sociology at State University College at New Paltz, will be the speaker for the first session of the symposium "Dying, Death and Funerals," sponsored by St. Peter's Church in Rosendale, Tuesday, March 1, 8 p.m. in Mulry Hall. His topics will be "Attitudes About Death," and "Living with Dying." There is no fee and no advance registration is necessary.

In addition to his teaching, Dr. Pine is the research and analysis consultant and disaster assistance coordinator for the National Funeral Directors Association. A former funeral director, he is a member of the National Advisory Board of the Center for Death Education and Research at the University of Minnesota, the Professional Advisory Board of the Foundation of Thanatology at Columbia University. In addition, he is a member of the International Board of Advisors of the Forum for Death Education and Counseling in Arlington, Va. He serves on the editorial boards of "Omega," journal of Death and Dying; the journal "Death Education."

Dr. Pine is a frequent guest lecturer at colleges, universities and organizations throughout the United States. He has contributed numerous articles to professional journals, and is the author and editor of several books on the subjects of death, grief, and bereavement, including "Caretaker of the Dead: the American Funeral Director," and "Acute Grief and the Funeral."

HUNTER — It's been a good year for skiing in the East. After a few seasons of marginal conditions, all that frigid weather that drove your fuel bill out of sight enabled ski area operators to boast good to excellent conditions to their legions of downhill devotees.

Nowhere were the signs of success more evident than at Hunter Mountain. While the skies over Vail and Aspen stayed cloudless, Hunter's vast snowmaking system pumped out foot upon foot of the white stuff, much to the delight of the thousands who every weekend turned the northern Catskill resort into a small city.

Freeman photographer Alan Carey joined the throngs recently to record his impressions on film. He caught the ethereal beauty of gliding free down a slope as well as some other aspects of the sport.

Clockwise from top left: Skiers on the mountain form a stark ballet in black and white.

An unscheduled toboggan ride is sometimes part of the experience.

An icepack feels good where the end of a ski pole didn't as Eddie Robert of Catskill discovers.

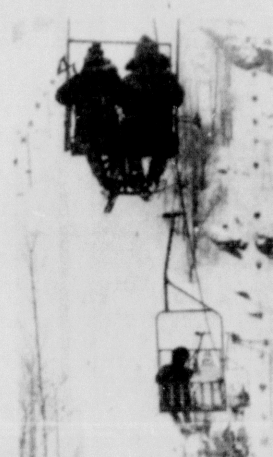

A frosty mustache? Just grin and bear it like ski school instructor John Olsen.

The lifts at Hunter can carry 14,000 people to the top in an hour.

One of the most popular places on the mountain doesn't have any snow.

A forest of fiberglass surrounds the base lodge.

Nicklaus, Player Prove They Still Rule Roost

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — These youngsters who have been staging a takeover the last two months might have to wait a year or two more after all.

The Tom Putzgers, Rick Massengale and Bruce Lietzke were served notice at the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic that Jack Nicklaus is still very much around and so is Gary Player. Lee Trevino also let it be known that it won't be long before he's back on top.

Nicklaus holed a 32-foot putt for an eagle three on the 15th hole Sunday to win the $50,000 first prize in the Gleason event, the first Florida event on the PGA tour.

Nicklaus had a 70 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 275, five shots better than Player, who finished second after shooting 73 Sunday.

Trevino, playing his first tournament since major surgery last November, skied to a 79 Sunday, but a 69 and a 71 on Friday and Saturday showed he can't be counted out. He finished way back in the pack with 294.

Putzger, who won at Los Angeles last week, missed the cut. Massengale, who won the Bob Hope Desert Classic the previous week, shot a 69-290.

Lietzke took this week off to spend time with his ailing father in Beaumont, Tex. The tour's other two-time winner this year, Tom Watson, finished with 72-288, 15 strokes behind Nicklaus.

Nicklaus has a theory on why so many young players seem to storm the gates early in the year and then fade out of sight.

"It's the same pattern every year, a lot of these guys practice through the holidays, and are all ready to go when the tour starts," Nicklaus said.

"But then they start eliminating themselves. They play eight or nine weeks in a row and with that kind of schedule they gotta get tired. Pretty soon you don't hear from them for awhile."

Nicklaus explained the theory didn't necessarily apply to Lietzke or Watson, but rather to some of the young players who come close during the winter but don't live up to their potential the rest of the year.

Nicklaus was playing only his third tournament of the year, but is now planning to start his run for the Masters, scheduled for April 7-10.

He'll skip this week's Citrus Open at Orlando, but then will play three straight — The Doral at Miami, the Tournament Player's Championship at Jacksonville and the Heritage in South Carolina.

The win Sunday was Nicklaus' 61st and ties him with Arnold Palmer for most career victories behind Sam Snead with 84 and Ben Hogan with 82.

It was Nicklaus' third appearance of the year and his first win since the World Series of Golf last September. In his other two outings this year he finished 11th at the Bing Crosby and missed the cut in the Hawaiian Open.

Nicklaus started slow Sunday, carding a two-over-par 38 on the front side and temporarily losing the lead to Player on the eighth hole.

SPORT PARADE

Milton Richman,
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Do you suppose those Yankee batboys are going to go running to Jerry Kapstein now?...Reliever Paul Lindblad, working out with the Yankees until he finds out whether he belongs to the Rangers or the A's, isn't getting his blood pressure worked up over the eventual outcome. He's less excited than anybody else, although living only a few minutes from the ballpark in Arlington, Tex., naturally he hopes Bowie Kuhn ultimately will okay his $400,000 sale to the Rangers by Oakland owner Charlie Finley....

Lindblad cautions against betting against Finley in any situation. By the same token, the 35-year-old left-hander says any problem existing between him and Finley could have been settled originally for relatively little money and the only reason it wasn't was because of Finley's obstinacy. Finley doesn't see himself as being mulish at all....

"People may think I'm stubborn, but it's just the opposite," he says. "I believe firmly in fighting for what is right. I'm not stubborn. I'm the easiest person in the world to get along with, or to work for, if the individual who is taking my money is loyal and willing to give me an honest day's work for his pay."

There isn't anything wrong with Charlie Finley fighting for what he believes is right. He is wrong, however, overlooking the rights of other people, and he does that. Other people have rights, too, the same as he has. Charlie Finley doesn't make himself look good calling Bowie Kuhn the kind of names school boys use before they are fully mature. I'm sure those names do not sit well with Bowie Kuhn. They have to bother him, but he never responds by calling Finley any names. The Commissioner remains silent, and in doing so, he doesn't diminish his respect from other people, he only increases it. Sometimes I think Charlie Finley's attacks on Bowie Kuhn aren't altogether personal. I get the feeling Finley would be rascally critical of the commissioner whether he was Bowie Kuhn or anybody else....

The Canadians have been having all kinds of difficulty with the housing complex used by the athletes during the 1976 Olympics in Montreal. The Canadians find they can't even give the place away. Nobody wants it. That's one problem our government isn't going to have after the 1980 winter Olympics at Lake Placid. As soon as the athletes are finished using the housing facility there, it will be converted into a U.S. federal prison for the eastern district, and the crime rate being what it is, there shouldn't be any problem filling it....

Players like to agitate each other. In the NBA, some of them have been agitating Slick Watts, teasing the popular, little Seattle SuperSonics' guard about his three-year contract which escalates up to "only" to $100,000. They've got under his skin to the point where he wants to sit down with Seattle owner Sam Schulman and talk to him about money, you understand, but "security." Somehow, I have a hunch money will crop up in that conversation somewhere. There's nothing like it to add to a ballplayer's security. Or take the sting out of some of the agitation he might be getting from his "friends."....

Pete Rozelle, the NFL Commissioner, has far more foresight than most others in sports. When players and owners in his league agreed to a new five-year contract last week, Rozelle said he was happy because he felt people were being alienated by all the disputes in sports. "I was concerned because the public turns to us for escape and when we no longer offer such an escape, the people will find something else," said Rozelle....He's right, and if some of the other sports like baseball, basketball and hockey are smart, they'll pay attention to what he says and learn from it....

Walt Alston, the ex-Dodger manager, does his best not to laugh when some ballplayers try to tell him how rough they've had it. Alston really WORKED his way through school at Miami of Ohio. "I drove a laundry truck at 6 in the morning before my first class, raked up pool balls from 12 to 1 in a combination pool room and restaurant during lunch time and generally found something to do to earn a little money after school," he says....

Player, right, gives Nicklaus a hand

Chris and Martina Getting Fat Off Slims

DETROIT (UPI) — Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert are getting fat off the Virginia Slims.

One or the other has won every one of the eight Slims tournaments held so far this year.

The top-seeded Navratilova took her fourth win Sunday when she squeezed past No. 2 seed Sue Barker of England by twin 6-4 scores to take top prize of $20,000 in the $100,000 Detroit event and become the first woman to go over $100,000 in tennis earnings this year.

It should be Evert's turn this week, as Navratilova is passing by the San Francisco Slims stop. Evert, whose earnings are $900 shy of six figures this season, skipped defending her title in Detroit.

Of course, it's a little easier for the two to dominate with Evonne Goolagong off the tour to have a baby and Margaret Court having decided to retire again, but Barker (three times) and Court (twice) are the only other players to even reach a Slims final round this year.

"I've only lost once against Sue and twice against Chris on the tour this year," Navratilova said. "That's pretty good for me. I usually lose somewhere along the line to someone I shouldn't."

"I'm playing the percentages," the Mission Hills, Calif., resident said. "I'm not trying to make big shots. Team Tennis taught me that. Every point is so important there you can't take chances."

"It's not really my game to be careful," said the deephitting Barker, who had just enough trouble with her first serve (indicated by four double faults) to enable the transplanted Czechoslovakian to score three breaks.

Navratilova, who volleyed or came to the net successfully 25 of 39 times, broke through on Barker's last service to win the first set, but was broken in turn on the first game of the second. However, she retaliated at 1-2 to tie the set and then recorded another service break to close out the match.

Evert must win this week to tie Navratilova in the Ginny standings with a total of 1,210. Barker is a distant third with 620.

Navratilova is even more successful in doubles, having five wins and two seconds, after teaming with Betty Stove of Holland in turning back Janet Newberry of La Jolla, Calif., and JoAnne Russell of Naples, Fla.

Third place in the tournament went to England's Virginia Wade, who topped Francois Durr, 8-3, in a pro set for $5,800.

The only disturbing note of the tournament was the attendance, which sagged 10,000 from last year's total of 32,000. There were 7,015 for the finals.

Gottfried Whips His Partner Ramirez

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Brian Gottfried is on his way up.

Gottfried, 25, and most commonly known as the other half of the world's best doubles team, stroked and smashed his way to victory Sunday in the finals of the $225,000 American Airlines Tennis Games and picked up $35,200 for his efforts.

The tournament was without the world's top three players — Jimmy Connors, Ilie Nastase and Bjorn Borg — but Gottfried didn't consider the tournament's field second rate.

Gottfried came from behind to score a 2-6, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Guillermo Vilas, the No. 4 player in the world who had ousted Raul Ramirez in a semifinal match.

Ramirez is Gottfried's doubles partner.

Gottfried is ranked 10th in the world and has steadily improved since losing to Borg.

Ed Biro Tops Stellar Field in '700' Open

KINGSTON—The man who is number two on the area's Top Ten bowling honors list with a 734 triple turned out to be number one Saturday night in the first annual Mr. Ho-Bo "700" Open Tournament conducted at the Hoe Bowl on the Hill lanes.

Edward Biro grabbed the $200 first prize from the total purse of $500 and bested a field of 76 other kiegiers in capturing the event with a five-game series of 1,054. The Red Hook resident fired games of 193, 202, 211, 222 and 226 to finish 14 pins ahead of his nearest competitor.

"It was the first time that I've seen so many good bowlers under the same roof at the same time," noted tournament director Ralph DeStefano. "We are very pleased with the turnout, for this being the first year."

The tournament was open to any bowler who had ever bowled a sanctioned 700 series. Surprisingly, only seven entrants managed to average over 200 for the quintet of games, perhaps proving the format to be a test of endurance as well as skill.

On the distaff side, Joan Jameson, who ranks fifth on both the single game and triple Top Ten lists, finished in the top 25 with a 905. The only other female bowler, Rose Schatzel, came in with an 850.

Bernie Pelose of Poughkeepsie was second and won $100 with a 1,042 total off games of 248, 180, 202, 212 and 200. Third was Werner Keil Jr. of Poughkeepsie, who won $60 with a total of 1,040—235-201-169-213-222.

Jerry Woodvine, who is tied for the ninth highest triple of the season (701), earned $25 for the high single game of 256 during his 1,029 series that earned fourth place and $35.

The money winners were rounded out by Donald Stickle, Catskill, fifth, $25, 1,015; Don Van Keuren, Kingston, sixth, $20, 1,007; Keith Hamilton, Kingston, seventh, $12, 1,001 and Phil Versace, Poughkeepsie, eighth, $10, 995.

The Habs Remembered

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Montreal Canadiens, who seemingly have proved to everyone they're good at everything, Sunday night took the opportunity to show they have a good memory as well.

The Canadiens, remembering "the last time," blazed by the New York Rangers 8-1, firing 49 shots at beleaguered goalies John Davidson and Gilles Gratton.

It was easy to see the contrast between this game and the last meeting between the clubs. For one thing, the Rangers won that Dec. 12 game 5-2, one of only seven losses Montreal has suffered this season.

"They were hungrier, more ready tonight than for that game," said Davidson, victimized for the first five Montreal goals before being removed after the second period. "They played a super game tonight. They didn't let us have the puck. I've never seen a better hockey club."

"We didn't play that well in that earlier 5-2 loss," said Montreal goalie Ken Dryden, who lost his shutout bid with 7:15 to play on a deflection by Greg Polis. "We were passing blindly, getting caught up ice."

"Tonight we didn't let that happen. Tonight we did something unusual and good—we forced the play ourselves. We've got a number of very good defensive forwards who kept the puck most of the time in their end."

Murray Wilson was the chief offensive star, scoring two goals and adding an assist as Montreal won its fifth straight game and extended its unbeaten string to 18 games, five short of the National Hockey League record shared by Boston and Philadelphia. The Rangers dropped their second in a row and fourth in their last six outings.

Wilson opened the scoring with a back-hander past Davidson at 2:19 of the first period. The Montreal left wing added his second goal on a power play at 2:38 of the second period, increasing the Canadiens' lead to 4-0.

Bill Nyrop, Yvon Lambert, Mario Tremblay, Steve Shutt, Yvan Cournoyer and Bob Gainey also scored for Montreal. Defenseman Guy Lapointe, who assisted on Tremblay's goal, picked up his 400th NHL point with the assist and Shutt's goal was his 49th, tops in the league. Guy Lafleur, the league's leading point-scorer, had two assists to bring his total to 102 points.

Kings 5, Sabres 1
Nearly all the individual attention on offense in the National Hockey League this season has focused on the Montreal Canadiens' Guy Lafleur and Steve Shutt, but Marcel Dionne has quietly been making his own niche in the scoring race.

Sunday night Dionne reached the 40-goal mark when he registered a three-goal hat trick in the Los Angeles Kings' 5-1 victory over the Buffalo Sabres.

It is the third straight season the "Beaver," as his teammates call him, has reached the 40-goal plateau and fourth time in his six years in the league. Although both the morepublicized Canadiens have higher goal totals, Dionne has been No. 1 in the point-scoring race at several times and is now second to Lafleur. "Tonight I really felt good and I felt like really skating," said Dionne. "It was tough for them (Buffalo) but we needed the win more than they did."

Penguins 2, Bruins 2
Pierre Larouche's goal early in the third period boosted Pittsburgh into the tie. Jean Ratelle and Matti Hagman scored for Boston and Penguins center Syl Apps returned to the lineup after an eight-game injury layoff with Pittsburgh's first goal.

Canucks 4, Black Hawks 3
Stan Mikita's 500th NHL wasn't enough for Chicago. Mikita's goal, on a brilliant solo effort, earned him a five-minute standing ovation as the 18-year veteran became the eighth player in league history to score 500 goals. Bobby Lalonde scored twice during a 6½-minute second-period burst for the Canucks.

TRIM'S ARENA

Three Teams Advance To City Net Semis

KINGSTON—The field is almost set for the semifinals of the Kingston City Men's Doubles Tennis Tournament being held at the Municipal Auditorium, with the top-ranked team of Pete and Bill Zehe ready to meet the third-seeded team of Tom Provenzano and Andy Stoll in one semifinal match Friday at 5 p.m.

The other semifinal will have the fourth-seeded squad of Ron Schoonmaker and Charlie Farley. Their foe will come from Tuesday's quarterfinal match between the teams of Ron Woods-Dick Smith, the second seeds, and Bob Vogel-Ken Rumble.

The Zehehs coasted into the semis by downing Paul Donadio and Fred DelRosario 6-0, 6-2 and then defeating Paul Lyle and Dave Jordan, 6-1, 6-1. Provenzano-Stoll bested Joe Argulewicz and Pete Smith, 6-0, 6-3 and then topped John Roberts and Kal Kalleberg, 6-1, 6-2. Schoonmaker-Farley downed Mike Kavanaugh and Clark Bell, 6-3, 6-1 and Andre George and George Campbell, 6-2, 7-6. Woods-Smith beat John Kasten and Bob Adams, 6-3, 6-1.

The second semifinal match is set for Friday at 6:15 p.m. and the finals, a best three sets out of five match, will be Sunday at 3 p.m.

Smith Kept Shooting And Finally Got Hot

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — Missing his first 10 shots in the second half didn't turn Phil Smith timid, especially when Rick Barry, Golden State's leading scorer, was slowed by a sore knee.

So Smith kept shooting and wound up scoring nine straight Golden State points late in the fourth period Sunday afternoon to pull out a 106-98 victory over the New York Nets.

"When you get your shots you got to take them," said Smith, who finished with a game-high 24 points. "They weren't falling for me in the second half, but there's no way the Nets should have been ahead and I knew the ball would drop eventually."

The Warriors led by as many as 15 points in the first half, as Smith scored 13 and Barry seven of his 14.

But the Nets rallied behind Bubbles Hawkins and Tim Bassett to take a 74-73 lead after three quarters. Smith missed eight straight shots in the period and his first two in the fourth.

With the score tied 85-85 and 6:22 left, New York's Dave Wohl and Smith exchanged baskets. Mike Bantom, who topped the Nets with 23 points, followed with two free throws for the Nets' last lead.

Then Smith hit a basket, made a three-point play and sank two free throws. The nine straight points by the 6-foot-4 guard out of the University of San Francisco gave the Warriors a 94-89 lead.

"It wasn't an exciting game, rather dull," Smith said. "And the Nets have a way of lulling you to sleep. But our philosophy is to hit the open man and that's what we finally did late in the fourth period."

The Nets third-period rally from a nine-point deficit came after Coach Kevin Loughery received his second technical foul of the game and 33rd of the season at 9:21 of the third period. Loughery was automatically ejected and with assistant coach Rod Thorn away on a scouting trip, 33-year-old reserve center Jim Fox assumed the coaching duties.

Jamaal Wilkes scored 18 points for the Warriors and reserve forward Derrick Dickey added 16 points and eight rebounds in 24 minutes.

"Maybe today's game wasn't artistic," Golden State Coach Al Attles said. "But it was a win anyway. Dickey played a great game for us. He gave us a lot of help."

Jan van Breda Kolff, normally a starting forward for New York, filled in for starting guard Al Skinner, who injured his ankle Friday night against Detroit. Van Breda Kolff contributed 21 points and 14 rebounds from the backcourt spot. Hawkins added 18 points for New York.

Bullets 117, Braves 105
Elvin Hayes of the Washington Bullets is proud National Basketball Association rivals think it takes three men and a boy to keep him in check.

"I'm 6-9 and I'm getting double and triple-teamed all the time," said Hayes Sunday after his 40 points led the Washington Bullets to a 117-105 victory over the Buffalo Braves. "Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sometimes has only one guy guarding him."

"Why me?" Hayes asked rhetorically. "Because they really respect me now. When they double and triple team you, it makes you work harder."

Hayes added the Bullets are "making rivals pay for it" because the multiple-teaming means that teammates must be open.

"Somebody has to be open when they do that to me," he said. "And that guy is going to score."

Hayes scored 11 of his points in the final 3½ minutes, capping a game in which he also pulled down 14 rebounds for the NBA's Central Division leaders. Phil Chenier added 27 points and Mitch Kupchak 18 for the Bullets, who have won 23 of their last 30 games. The Bullets trailed by as many as 17 points in the first half and by nine at halftime.

Nuggets 121, Celtics 100
David Thompson scored 31 points, including 19 in the first half, and Dan Issel had 27 to lead the Nuggets to their victory over Boston. The Celtics were led by Dave Cowens, who had 24 points and 16 rebounds. It was the sixth victory in their last seven games for the Nuggets.

76ers 93, Sonics 85
Julius Erving scored 22 points and George McGinnis and Lloyd Free had 18 each as the 76ers scored their victory over the Sonics at Seattle. Fred Brown led the Sonics with 22 points.

Spurs 135, Jazz 118
Bill Paulitz scored 31 points and George Gervin 27 in the Spurs' triumph over the Jazz at New Orleans. The Spurs outscored the Jazz 37-20 in the third period to take a decisive lead. Pete Maravich scored 40 points for the Jazz.

Lakers 106, Rockets 101
Tom Abernethy scored a career-high 18 points, including eight in the fourth period, in the Lakers' triumph over the Rockets. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 29 points and blocked eight shots for Los Angeles while Moses Malone led Houston with 19 points and 19 rebounds.

THE CAR GIANT'S LOST KEY TREASURE HUNT

FIND THE KEY WIN A NEW 1977 PINTO BEGINS MARCH 1st 1977

If no one finds the key by April 15, 1977 a giant drawing from the registered entrants will be held April 23, 1977 to determine the Lucky Winner.

— RULES AND REGULATIONS —

- 1— Licensed drivers only
- 2— All entrants must register in "Hunt Log" at Johnson Ford showroom.
- 3— Only one entry per person.
- 4— Employees and relatives of Johnson Ford, Ford Motor Company, The Daily Freeman, and Radio Station WKNY, are not eligible.
- 5— If the key is not found, we will have a drawing from registered entrants on April 23, 1977 to determine who will win the Pinto
- 6— No purchase is necessary to win.

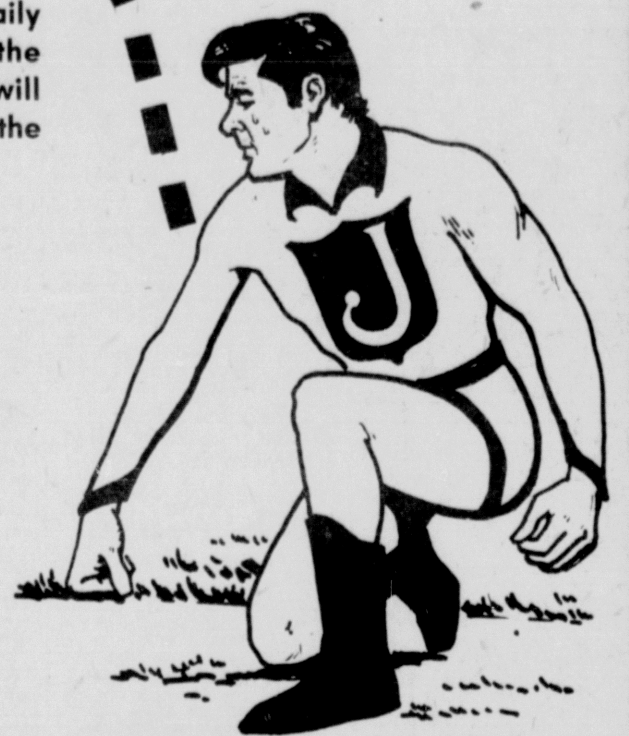

We did not actually lose a key, we hid a specially engraved key somewhere in Johnson Ford's Trade Area. The daily clues given over Radio Station WKNY and posted on the "Lost Key Clue Board" at the Johnson Ford Showroom will lead you to the hidden key. No clues will be given over the phone by Johnson Ford or WKNY Employees.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, MARCH 1

Your birthday today: As you make progress to fulfill your destiny, remind yourself it's not done in a quick span, but a little at a time every day. By living a well-balanced life, including spiritual and emotional health, all falls into place this year. Today's natives range from composers to athletes in their wide scope of special interests. What they have in common is a lasting fidelity and conscientious support for what they are trained to accept as good.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Do what is nearby for the immediate future rather than what is faraway or long term. You play host unexpectedly or must include extra people in social plans.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Ability to gather unfamiliar information determines how well you fare. Ask friends to help or let you alone. Evening is lively but confused. Get by in peace.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Everybody has a different opinion. You miss out on something if you stop to argue. Inducements to waste money arise. Look for the right kind of backing.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Finding an appropriate spot for attention is part of current action. Any easy way out generates problems. Select companions carefully or remain on your own.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You can handle minor crises by going along with the crowd instead of trying to lead it. Shared experience in late hours deepens or weakens existing ties.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22):

Brief travel brings extra benefits, but don't dawdle or add side trips. En route, pass up temptation to splurge on personal luxuries or invest in "sure things."

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Stop and think what part you played in causing irritating conditions. Change your course first, then you can offer suggestions for others to do likewise.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The urge to make a clean sweep, take the lot for your self is strong. Split gains so you have group support. Candid advice is hard to accept, much needed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): To produce what you promised becomes extremely expensive. Learn to avoid overcommitment. Temporary social situations push you beyond regular budget.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Nothing is perfect or even amenable to adjustment. Persuasive effort turns things around. Begin in a small way, don't wait for a fantastic opportunity.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): By staying well within bounds of what was agreed, you build working relations with those whose cooperation you need. Don't let sudden rivalry throw you.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Find a rational basis for your project, sell the idea. Better hear out others' stories than elaborate on your concerns. Not all who listen do you any good.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.
BIG MOUTH: (Q.) I have this problem of keeping my big mouth shut. Whenever someone tells me a secret and tells me never to tell anyone, I end up telling another person, and that's the end of another friendship.

The last time my mouth was open was when I heard something and went to tell one of my friends. That night, another person called me up and said I was talking behind her back. So I called my friend I had talked to and asked her why she spread it around. And she said it was so good she couldn't hold it inside of her, so she told everybody.

Now, I can't blame her for that, because I'm the same way. How can I keep my big mouth shut? -- Talker in Indiana.

(A.) You like to talk. Talking is great, as long as you talk about the right things.

Each day, you hear colorful and exciting stories that aren't secrets. When you talk, talk about these things, and your conversation will be interesting. At the same time, you'll be holding back the personal secrets about yourself and your friends that would hurt someone if they were spread around.

Follow this recipe and nobody will get annoyed at you.

COMPETITION: (Q.) The girls and boys in our class were getting along well in seventh grade, but now in eighth grade, we're really beginning to hate each other.

It all started when the boys started to like the girls at another school. They talked about them constantly. So we just let them have them, because we weren't about to get down on our hands and knees to get them back.

Now they're after the girls from still another school. Some people say they're just trying to get us mad. But if that's their plan, it's NOT working. It's just making us HATE them even more.

Do you think that us hating them is wrong? Please tell us something to do. Should we hate them, try to get along, or what? -- Almost Mad in Pennsylvania.

(A.) From year to year, our world gets wider and we find new interests. The boys in your class are doing this, and there is no reason for hating them or being angry at them.

Find new interests of your own — other boys in your own school or boys in other schools.

Continue to be friendly, though, with the boys in your class. They see you every day, and that should work to your advantage. In the long run, you have the advantage over girls from other schools.

(Have a problem? Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas, 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received, Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

DEFENDER CHOOSES HIS KIND OF LAUGH

by Alfred Sheinwold

One way to get your laughs is to let your partners guess. Whenever they guess wrong, you can split your sides laughing. If you avoid making them guess, you can get your laughs the next day—all the way to the bank.

East wins the first trick with the queen of hearts and returns the ten of hearts to the ace.

South leads the queen of clubs for a finesse, and East must take the king. East must now guess the best suit to return.

It would be normal for East to return a diamond, up to dummy's weakness. East would have to be a mind reader to lead a spade up to dummy's strength.

The normal diamond return gives West a big laugh since it allows South to make the contract with four diamonds, four clubs and one heart.

OTHER KIND

West would get the other kind of laugh if he dropped the king of hearts at the second trick. This unnecessarily high play, when South's ace is winning the trick, is a signal to show an entry in a high suit rather than in a low suit. The high suit is spades; the low suit in this case would be diamonds.

The signal would tell East to return a spade when he has taken his club trick. South goes down three instead of making the game and rubber.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: ♦ A 6 ♥ K J 8 7 6 3 ♣ 10 8 ♠ 5 3 2

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts. Since you have 18 points in high cards, you know that the combined count is 24 to 26 points. This should be enough for game with your fine distribution. Don't beat about the bush when you know what the final contract should be.

Nation's Fastest Growing Crime

Arson 'Racket' On Rapid Rise

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — The head of the state Professional Firefighters Association says the refusal of insurance companies to investigate suspected arson cases has led to a dramatic rise in the crime.

Robert Gollnick said Sunday arson was the fastest growing crime in the nation, forcing large increases in insurance premiums.

He said fire loss from arson has doubled in the past 10 years and in 1975 reached an estimated $126 million in New York State.

"Right now, virtually nothing is being done to curb the multimillion dollar arson racket," Gollnick charged.

The fire official put the blame on the insurance companies.

Insurance companies would rather hike rates and have the public at large absorb the soaring cost of "arson-for-profit" instead of restoring routine investigations of suspicious fires which was the procedure until 1970, he said.

"Fire premium costs have soared since then," he said.

Gollnick said the lack of enforcement of arson laws has weakened the whole reporting system on arson, leaving authorities without reliable statistics on the crime.

Gollnick said the state Insurance Department recently maintained that local police agencies and not the insurance industry itself were responsible for probing incendiary blazes.

"This is a clear case of buckpassing," he charged.

"Most local police and fire departments can't do the job since few in the state have arson teams of any substance."

Hundreds of Tourists Flee Blaze

20 Die in Moscow Hotel Fire

MOSCOW (UPI) — "The fire was going so terribly, terribly fast, it just jumped from one room to another," said a West German visitor who escaped the flames at Moscow's Rossiya hotel.

"If it hadn't been for that fire department — honest to God — I'd be dead," said Cloce Palmer of Fairfield, Ohio. Palmer said a fireman led him through smoke down five flights of stairs to safety.

Palmer and the West German, who declined to give his name, were among hundreds of foreign tourists and businessmen who fled from the hotel's north wing Friday night and early Saturday during a five-hour blaze.

Authorities issued no casualty figures, but at least 20 bodies were reported at a city morgue. A Western diplomat said he had been shown a list of injured "upwards of 50 names long."

An American official said there were no American deaths, but one U.S. citizen suffered minor injuries and was hospitalized.

Damage appeared extensive to the $40 million, 3,200-room hotel, reputed to be the world's largest.

Authorities blamed a fault in the motor of the Finnish-made elevators for starting the blaze. A com-

SHARK ATTACK

Paul Howard, savagely mauled when he threw himself between a 12-foot shark and a girl off Kingscliff Beach near Brisbane, Australia, shows his bandaged arm to newsmen. Howard, 24, received 70 stitches for severe lacerations to his arms and legs after the successful rescue. "I just pushed her out of the shark's way," he said, "and she kept going."

mission was set up by the city council to investigate the fire.

The Rossiya, overlooking the Kremlin and the onion domes of historic St. Basil's cathedral in Red Square, is a Soviet showpiece for foreigners.

Indications were the fire flashed quickly through the entire north wing and the center towers topped by a restaurant that offers visitors a picture postcard view of Moscow.

George Englessen, a nuclear engineer from Philadelphia, said he and 100 other diners in the restaurant smashed out windows with their chairs to release the smoke.

They then wrapped themselves in tablecloths to ward off the cold before being led to safety.

John Ryott, a businessman from Stockholm, said a waiter in the second floor restaurant where he was eating demanded to be paid after serving wine, then rushed past in his overcoat, saying only the kitchen had been closed.

"We were never given an alarm," he said.

Other tourists who returned to their rooms after the fire found they had lost all their possessions in the tremendous heat. The 250-yard hallways were ankle-deep in water.

Foreigners were kept away from the damaged wing and Soviet police confiscated film from a number of foreign correspondents who attempted to take photographs.

A second, unrelated fire broke out Sunday afternoon in the offices of the Ministry of Merchant Marine, but it was quickly contained with no apparent damage.

Missing Union Boss Sought

LAS VEGAS, Nev.(UPI) — The powerful 22,000-member Culinary Workers Union Local 226 has posted a $25,000 reward for information on the whereabouts of vanished Nevada union boss Al Bramlet, who disappeared mysteriously five days ago.

Bramlet, 59, president of the Local Joint Executive Board, including the culinary workers and the bartenders union, disappeared Thursday after a trip to Reno on union business.

Authorities said Bramlet called his daughter from McCarran Airport in Las Vegas late Thursday to say he would be home in 20 minutes, but he never arrived. His car was found in the airport parking lot.

Culinary Local President Ben Schmutz said any information should be given directly to Las Vegas Metropolitan Police.

"A $25,000 reward has been offered for information leading to the whereabouts of Al Bramlet, Schmutz announced Sunday. "The reward will be paid upon certification from police that the information provided led to finding out about Mr. Bramlet's disappearance."

Police said they have not turned up any clues.

"I hope we don't have a Hoffa case on our hands," one investigator said Sunday.

One-time Teamsters boss James Hoffa disappeared mysteriously in Detroit during the summer of 1975 and has never been found.

Barbara Bramlet, 27, who was married to the union leader two months ago, said her husband called a Dunes Hotel executive the night he disappeared to ask that $10,000 be delivered to the Horseshoe Casino.

Bramlet led a strike a year ago against the Nevada Resort Association which closed a dozen multi-million dollar strip hotel-casino resorts.

Secret Agreement Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance says the Carter administration is looking for Nixon-era documents that might clarify reports of a secret U.S.

agreement with China to end ties with the government on Taiwan.

Vance responded Sunday in a televised interview (CBS-TV's Face the Nation) to a report by columnist Joseph Kraft that a search began after a Feb. 8 meeting between President Carter and Huang Chen, head of the Peoples Republic of China mission.

Kraft wrote that Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger had virtually promised Peking the United States would end its connection with the Nationalist China government in a few years, and that Chen asked Carter if his administration was aware of that understanding.

Asked about the column, Vance said Kissinger had given "the fullest cooperation" during the transition, and said:

"If there are any papers which we do not have, I am sure that we will be able to get those papers. I have no doubt in my mind about that."

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

Military Retirement Often Begins at 40

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About one out of every four military retirees starts drawing a lifelong pension while he has almost half his life still before him.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said Sunday 28 per cent of military retirees are under 40 when they leave the armed forces. The average 37-year old retiree has a life expectancy of 36 years by the Pentagon's own figures.

"That means we're pensioning off large numbers of men just halfway through life," he said.

The military retirement plan provides a lifetime pension to anyone who has spent 20 years in uniform, regardless of age.

"Some military careerists defend the early pension as simply deferred pay warranted by low service pay," Aspin said.

"The deferred pay argument explodes when you realize that if we took all the pension money now paid from age 38 to age 65 and added that on to active duty pay, it would mean paying almost $14,000 to raw recruits."

Constitutional Amendment Needed on Casinos

No Dice on Gambling Until 1979

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — Although state officials are wary that New Jersey's move to allow casino gambling may siphon tourists from New York resorts, any first move to copy the Garden State is apparently at least a year away.

Gov. Hugh Carey supports putting the issue before the state's voters and Assembly Speaker Stanley Steingut is even firmer in his backing of state-regulated casino gambling.

To permit such gambling, a state constitutional amendment would have to be passed by two separately elected legislatures before it could be placed on the ballot for a final referendum.

Thus, the earliest such a proposal could go to the voters would be November 1979, regardless of whether the legislature gave it first passage this year or next. And implementation would take even longer.

While Carey stopped short of endorsing casino gambling itself, he told a news conference last week he "would be willing to explore that question and give the people a choice" through a referendum on a proposed amendment.

Carey noted that resort bookings were up in Atlantic City, where New Jersey's casino gambling will be located.

"We want no state to have an advantage over New York," Carey said, calling it "a matter of competition" for tourist dollars to boost the state's economy.

The New Jersey legislature is in the process of drawing up laws to regulate the casinos and the actual opening of the gambling spots is not expected for at least a year, officials said.

In a study prepared for Steingut last year, the New York Legislative Institute of Baruch College estimated that state-operated casinos in New York could bring in $60 million a year in state revenues while attracting persons to New York.

Alternatives to state-run casinos would be operations run by non-profit or profit-making groups, subject to tight state regulation.

In 1972, the legislature gave first passage to a proposed amendment which would have allowed casino gambling run by non-profit organizations.

However, support for the proposal waned when Senate Majority Leader Earl Brydges of Niagara Falls retired at the end of that year and the amendment was not passed by the succeeding legislature.

Brydges' successor as head of the Republican majority in the Senate, Warren Anderson of Binghamton, prefers to wait until next year before considering first passage of such a proposal.

"The New Jersey situation would be crucial to acceptance here," Anderson's spokesman said. "It would be certain to be defeated if there is corruption or mismanagement."

"It would be an economic stimulus," the spokesman added, although noting that "it's certainly not going to be a solution to the state's fiscal problems."
